Jon Straw focuses on construction law and government contracts with experience in claim preparation, litigation, arbitration, mediation arising from changes, delays, and payment disputes. Jon has successfully represented and assisted prime contractors, subcontractors and public and private owners in both state and federal courts and before arbitration panels. Coming from a family of design professionals and problem solvers, Jon has a unique enthusiasm for construction.

Recent types of projects and locations:

- U.S. Department of Commerce, Office and Research Facility, Hawaii
- U.S. Department of Transportation, Air Traffic Control Tower and Office Building, Nevada
- U.S. Department of Defense Projects, OCONUS
- U.S. General Services Administration, Building Security Improvements, D.C. and Maryland
- Various Underground Cabling Projects, Virginia
- Electric Substation and Switchyard, Manitoba
- Hydro-Electric Power Generation Plant, Pennsylvania
- 12-mile Highway Connector, North Carolina

Jon has a concrete foundation in advocacy with a thorough understanding and proven ability to use all available means of persuasion to solve problems for clients. Before practicing law, he worked on several political fundraising and grassroots issue campaigns for corporate and association clients by crafting and delivering targeted persuasive messages. His training and experience are well-suited to analyzing and simplifying complex construction matters while understanding the interests of all parties involved to effectively and efficiently advocate for clients.

Some of Jon's recent construction and government contracts experience includes:

- Several appeals of claims before the Armed Services Board of Contract Appeals and General Services Board of Contract Appeals;
- Delay and damages claim preparation for a U.S.-based contractor constructing a 230 kV switchyard near Winnipeg, Manitoba;
- Co-counsel for an ENR Top 10 civil contractor in litigation over changes and delays arising from construction of a new 130 MW hydroelectric facility valued at over $500 million;
- Defending a large, multi-state prime contractor against several claims by subcontractors for payment, delay, acceleration, and defective work;
- Representing a general contractor in litigation over the upgrade of a wastewater treatment plant serving a population of more than 22,000 in Virginia;
- Defending an ENR Top 10 civil contractor in a claim for extra work from a housing redevelopment at Whiteman Air Force Base, Missouri;
- Representing a prime contractor in an International Chamber of Commerce arbitration involving a $100 million dispute arising from a cost reimbursable contract for the construction of a portion of a transcontinental oil pipeline;
- Representing a general contractor in business formation and contractor licensure in the Commonwealth of Virginia;

- Co-counsel for an ENR Top 10 civil contractor in a $21.5 million claim against the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers on a design-build project in the Southeast U.S.;
- Representing a pipeline contractor in claims by and against a subcontractor for defective work and extra work in litigation in Fairfax County, Virginia;
- Co-counsel for one of the five largest U.S. defense contractors in resolving a procurement dispute arising from the pursuit of a multi-million dollar IDIQ contract from the U.S. Department of Defense;
- Co-counsel for an ENR Top 10 civil contractor in the construction of a $90 million hydro-electric power pumped-storage facility and related claims by and against a public entity in the Southwestern United States;
